Flow batteries can discharge up to 10 hours at a stretch, whereas most other commercial battery types are designed to discharge for one or two hours at a time. The role of flow batteries in utility applications is foreseen mostly as a buffer between the available energy from the electric grid and difficult-to-predict electricity demands.

The flow battery OPEX, albeit modest, can also contribute to the overall cost. Infrequent though they are, maintenance requirements must also be factored into the project's budget. In spite of these challenges, the virtues of flow batteries - such as longevity and scalability - can outshine the struggles tied to initial costs.
