Is a Bess project bankable?

The problem with BESS project bankability, aside from the technology risk (degradation profiles, operating standards and performance warranties), is revenue risk. An optimally structured BESS project will have revenues from a variety of sources, which include energy price arbitrage, selling ancillary services and negotiated ancillary services.

What makes a Bess project a good investment?

An optimally structured BESS project will have revenues from a variety of sources, which include energy price arbitrage, selling ancillary services and negotiated ancillary services. The price arbitrage of the merchant market is very attractive to sponsors given the potential for more equity upside.

Does Genex's Bouldercombe Bess project have debt financing?

Although relatively small, the recently closed A$35 million debt financing for Genex's 50MW/100MWh Bouldercombe BESS project in Queensland is a prime example of that evolution. Closed on 28 February 2022, the Bouldercombe deal comprises an A$35 million construction facility provided from funds managed by Infradebt.

Who financed Wandoan South Bess?

In December 2020 Vena Energy closed on the debt financing for the 100MW/150MWh Wandoan South BESS project - a A$100 million facility provided by BNP Paribas, ING Bank and DBS Bank. And a year later UPC/AC Renewables Australia raised debt for the first stage of its 720MW/400MWh New England Solar project from Bank of China, CBA and Westpac.

Is the adoption of Bess a good idea?

Have you read? Presently, the adoption of BESS is low, and the growth of adoption is less than desired. As per the International Energy Agency (IEA), global BESS capacity was 85 GW at the end of 2023 and needs to reach 1200 GW by 2030 to enable seamless grid-integration of renewable energy, with net-zero 2050 emissions scenario as a target.

How complex are Bess assets?

BESS assets are more technically complex than many of the assets that come across the average UK project finance lender's desk. This nascent market is rapidly adapting to several somewhat unpredictable factors and its impact on both senior debt cover ratios and equity IRRs.
